I never finish games, there's always a new one to start and then I forget. I'd forgotten res7 til this thread.
I have to go back to Britain this week so I needed a reason not to top myself - res7 is it. What a sad cunt I am. No GF, kids hate me because I'm never there and they've grown up so it's too late, I live off women like my rich sister and the millionairess abfab dogs she introduces me to like pimping me out, and I'm about to hit the wall and probably end up in the gutter.
I live for PlayStation VR and that's not rhetorical. Without bud and VR and whores id throw myself off a bridge

No the big news is that it's cancer that spreads like a disease.

Something we know is possible because it happens in dogs and tasmanian devils but which we hadn't seen in humans until now.

Don't be such an dramatic cunt. Life isn't all that bad brother. You just have to find meaning in the small things.
I can't believe I'm quoting Peterstein but he is right when he says that great things can come from small beginnings.

I get nothing if I'm not right on the edge but everyone else died or went normal and I'm left on my own. At this stage I wouldn't drag anyone else into my private disaster movie life. I'd just get drunk and Cuck them in under a week anyway. I even started a whore fight yesterday in one the worlds most famous strip clubs. I'm the most toxic trash on earth so I go on pol and preach morality and anti degeneracy.
When I realised who Nasim was (pols resident vegan from last summer) and heard her using my own (fake) words I cried for a week, that was the last time I cared about anything. I'm not capable of anything but disaster.
I'm in paradise and look what happens to me.

>mfw that Nat-Soc chemist was telling the truth about his virus based off his grandfathers work mixed with something "ancient" during and after WW2 and we all thought he was larping.

Holy fucking shit. He said he released a virus in multiple locations on 6 continents and specifically mentioned Alice Springs as a testing ground due to its extremely high Abbo population and the virus attacks non whites only(though whites with some mixed blood might be at risk) so 6.8bn of Earth's population are at risk. It has a dormant state where it stays in the body for upto a year before activating and and becoming obvious they are ill and need treatment. The hope is, planting it in a mixture of highly populated aswell as fairly isolated places will allow it so spread worldwide as it attaches to whites(who like to travel) and then every sneeze, every handshake, every kiss,every sexual at etc, spread its further. His(and his "team) aim isn't genocide but population control to relieve Earth of pressures and doesn't want entire races extinct just culled to more manageable levels pointing out Africa's population explosion aswell as India's. He said early tests in the Ebola hit areas of West Africa were 99% effective and because bodies were immediately burnt no autopsies were done, so it was just another victim of Ebola.

I bet this is what the W.H.O posted a warning about at the start of the year as the next big pandemic. They've nicknamed it "Disease X":
https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2018/03/09/world-health-organization-issues-alert-disease-x/

T-Cell is a cousin of the AIDS virus and is essentially a cancer that spreads like a disease rather than something that only applies to an individual. Literally a world ender if it can't be stopped or treated.
Fucking Africans and Abbo's. Ruiner of worlds.

Have you even played it? Aside from the infrequent chase sequences, it's literally RE1 played from a first person perspective in gameplay terms. Shit gave me a massive nostalgia trip, I missed the comfy feel of exploring a "haunted house" setting, as no game after RE0 and RE1 remake got it right until RE7 came along. Also, VR really makes it better, no other game like that right now.

I hope RE2 remake will at least have a first-person VR mode, shit would be so cash.

Sucks Hollywood converted Resident Evil series (a game universe that featured both male and female strong characters just surviving the shit) into some grrl-powered Mary Sue porn.
